This book is dedicated to

Walter John Bo, Ph.D.

Dr. Bo was born on August 12, 1923 in Chisholm, Minnesota. After graduating from Chisholm High School in 1940 and spending two years at Hibbings Junior College, he attended Marquette University from 1943-47 where he completed both his Bachelor of Science and his Master of Science degrees in Zoology with a minor in Chemistry. Dr. Bo then spent two years as Instructor in Zoology at Xavier University prior to matriculating in the Anatomy Ph.D. program as a Graduate Fellow at the University of Cincinnati School of Medicine in 1949. After receiving his Ph.D. in Anatomy in 1953, Dr. Bo accepted a position as Assistant Professor of Anatomy at the University of North Dakota School of Medicine, and in 1958 he was promoted to Associate Professor of Anatomy.

It was in 1960 that Dr. Bo took a faculty position as Associate Professor of Anatomy at Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest University, and in 1963 he was promoted to full Professor of Anatomy. Since arriving at Bowman Gray, Dr. Bo has supervised 8 Ph.D. candidates and 9 Master of Science candidates and authored or co-authored 7 books and 66 scientific journal publications in addition to being Course Director of Gross Anatomy. Other teaching responsibilities have included graduate and elective courses in Gross Anatomy, Obstetrics and Gynecology, TMJ course for dentists, Medicine as a Career, Sports Medicine, and a Law and Forensic Medicine course at the Wake Forest University School of Law. Dr. Bo has served as President of Sigma Xi, Vice Chairman of the Medical Education Committee and Chairman of both the Academic Affairs Committee and the Student Discipline Committee in addition to serving on numerous committees, including the AIMS Council, Faculty Promotions Committee, Unit 1 Committee, Parallel Curriculum Committee, Faculty Forum Committee, Admissions Committee and Medical Student Advisor Program. Among his many honors and awards, Dr. Bo has received the Dedication of the 1967 Gray Matter, the Excellence in Teaching Award in 1974 and 1985, and the Basic Science Teaching Excellence Award in 1981 and 1983. In addition, Drs. Bo, Meschan and Krueger have received the following awards for the book entitled Basic Atlas of Cross-Sectional Anatomy: Award of Excellence from the Association of Medical Illustrators, Certificate of Award from the Philadelphia Book Clinic and Honorable Mention from the Association of American Publishers.

The Bowman Gray School of Medicine Class of 1990 has chosen to dedicate the 1990 Gray Matter to Dr. Walter Bo because of his sincere concern for and commitment to students in his roles as teacher, student advocate and friend. Each of the members of the Class of 1990, regardless of which area of medicine we pursue, will continue to utilize information, skills and values that he taught us on a daily basis. He has truly won a special place in our hearts, and we will remember Dr. Bo whenever we recall our days at Bowman Gray.

The Class of 1990 would like to pay Exceptional Acknowledgment to

Bernice McCutcheon, B.A.

Bernice was born in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. She attended the public schools in Winston-Salem and graduated from Winston-Salem State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology. This mother of five children began her career in the health and education field in the early 1960's when she took a position as a transcriptionist for Dr. Joseph Gordon at the 'old' Kate Bitting Reynolds Hospital. After the closing of Reynolds Hospital in December 1972, Bernice arrived at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine Department of Radiology as a Teaching File Secretary for Dr. Meschan in June of 1973.

It was in 1974 that the Office of Minority Affairs was established at Bowman Gray and Dr. Gordon was appointed its Director. Bernice transferred to the Office of Minority Affairs in 1975 as Secretary to Dr. Gordon, and in 1979 she was promoted to Program Specialist. Among her many duties in Minority Affairs, she devoted tireless hours to the development and implementation of programs designed to identify, recruit and matriculate students at Bowman Gray.

Since 1982 Bernice has worked in the Office of Educational Research and Services where she is currently Administrative Secretary. One of her present duties is to aid in the administration of medical student examinations. Bernice has developed an excellent rapport with students during her years at Bowman Gray, and being in the Student Services arena certainly appears to agree with her.

The Bowman Gray School of Medicine Class of 1990 chose Bernice to receive this honor because of her friendship, dedication and earnest concern for our welfare. Bernice has been an island of serenity throughout times of uncertainty ranging from our first Biochemistry exam freshman year to Part II of the National Boards during our senior year. When we leave Bowman Gray, we will certainly have affectionate memories of our friend, Bernice McCutcheon.

Ivan W.F. Davidson, Ph.D. (1926-1989)

Dr. Davidson, a native of Canada, was a graduate of the University of Manitoba and received both his M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Toronto. He was a research fellow at the renowned Banting and Best Department of Medical Research where he developed a long-term interest in insulin resistance and the role of heavy metals in diabetes. Dr. Davidson joined the Bowman Gray faculty in the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology in 1961. For the last decade he was director of the medical school's Pharmacology course. He twice received the Basic Science Teaching Award and was also recipient of the Lederle Medical Faculty Award. Dr. Davidson died October 3, 1989.

Charles R. Jerge, D.D.S., Ph.D. (1929-1989)

Dr. Jerge received his B.S. from the State University of New York and both his D.D.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. He served eleven years on the faculty of the University of Connecticut's School of Dental Medicine, including six years as its dean. Prior to arriving at Bowman Gray, he was professor and chairman of the Department of Dental Care System at the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine. In 1978 Dr. Jerge accepted the position of chairman of Bowman Gray's newly formed Department of Dentistry. During his chairmanship he developed a highly respected residency training program. Dr. Jerge died December 7, 1989.

Angus C. Randolph, M.D. (1924-1990)

Dr. Randolph originally hailed from Lexington, Virginia. He received his B.A. from Princeton University and his M.D. from the University of Virginia. Dr. Randolph served five years as a flight surgeon in the U.S. Air Force and received both the Air Medal and the Soldiers Medal. In 1946 he was a fellow at Johns Hopkins University; and a few years later he served as chief resident in psychiatry at Bowman Gray's Graylyn Hospital. He joined the Bowman Gray faculty in 1948 and ten years later became director of the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology. Dr. Randolph was named professor emeritus upon his retirement in 1987. He died January 31, 1990.

Henry Rothberger, M.D. (1943-1989)

Dr. Rothberger was a native of Detroit, Michigan. He received both his B.A. and M.D. degrees from the University of Michigan. He specialized in Rheumatology, participated in research at Scripps Institute, and in 1974 became board-certified in Hematology. Since 1977 he had been an Associate Professor of Medicine in the Section of Rheumatology at Bowman Gray School of Medicine. Dr. Rothberger died April 30, 1989 and he had been an avid supporter of many conservation and environmental groups.

OUR MEDICAL HERITAGE.....

1890

It cannot be denied that a great part of the knowledge laboriously acquired during college course is soon forgotten, and that most of it has little direct application to medical practice. Nevertheless, the fact remains that no adequate substitute for classical study as a means of mental discipline has yet been discovered.

But, notwithstanding all this, it is true that art is long and constantly growing larger, and life is short.

"THE TWIN" HALF-MINUTE CLINICAL THERMOMETER.

FOR QUICK REGISTRATION OF TEMPERATURE.

The scale marked with black ink and everlasting.

PATENTED MARCH 25, 1890.

The Most Substantial Sensitive Thermometer ever offered to the Medical Profession. With the atmospheric register at 60°, if "THE TWIN" be immersed in warm water of 105°, the mercury will reach that degree in less than 20 seconds. The welding the two bulbs into one without any intervening space renders "THE TWIN" much stronger and less liable to break than any other heretofore offered. It will also be found much more convenient to carry, requiring less room in a case or in the vest pocket. For these reasons as well as for its Guaranteed Accuracy, "THE TWIN" is universally recommended by the medical profession. For Sale by all Dealers. Price $2.00 Each. For a limited time sent by mail to physicians at 25 per cent. discount; that is upon receipt of $1.50 net, provided they are careful to mention this Magazine.

JOHN BARRY, Patentee and Maker 62 Fulton Street, NEW YORK.

The great clinical Sydenham said, "Without opium few would be callous enough to practice therapeutics." It is essential that the physician be able to control pain since pain is most exhausting. The recent work on shock has emphasized that severe pain itself is inimical to the return of the normal state.

1920

Wake Forest College School of Medical Sciences — Organized in 1902. The faculty numbers 16 professors, and 29 assistant professors, instructors, assistants and lecturers, making a total of 45.

Ninety semester hours of collegiate work are required for admission. The B.S. degree is given after the completion of the first year in the School of Medical Sciences. Each annual course extends over nine months. Tuition for each year is $300. The registration for 1939-1940 was 60. The next session begins Sept. 10, 1940, and ends June 2, 1941. The Dean is C.C. Carpenter, M.D.

1990

From antiquity, medicine has been and continues to be both a business and a profession. Physicians are, by definition, both entrepreneurs and professionals.

There are powerful economic incentives operating to make the practice of medicine more a business than it ever has been. And there are ever-increasing powerful government disincentives interfering as well.

The 1990s represent an extremely important, even crucial, decade in the history of medicine. During this time, it is our opportunity, indeed our responsibility, to take steps necessary to deliver this beloved old learned profession of ours into the next millennium intact as a true profession — not merely as a trade or a business.

Organized medicine up to and into the next millennium must be obviously in the public interest and of worldwide scope. It must ensure access to care of acceptable quality or all practice economic soundness, balance health fairly against all other societal needs, emphasize good communications, and most of all require and demonstrate goodwill toward all people.

MS I: MS I was quite a year. . . Of academics and of beer

MS I was a time of establishing oneself in the mesh that made up our class. We met each other on day 1 and shook hands in spite of our first impressions. We shared in a series of firsts starting with anatomy lab and cadaveric dissection which began as tentative pokings and groans and progressed to modest swordplay to out and out social hour. Classtime was release from uncertainties of summer freedom to the guided ritual of biochemistry, physiology, and other basic sciences. These moments swathed in the monotone of our professorial emotists spread rapidly into hours, then days, then weeks. Time in the classroom was soon converted into classmate readings which facilitated mornings in bed, trips to the Y and extended lunches. But in the end we were serious students and good citizens striving for a sound foundation in the basic sciences. We already had one foot in the door and our first set of loans to repay.

MS II: MS II is much like I . . . 'Ceptin' for it's much more fun

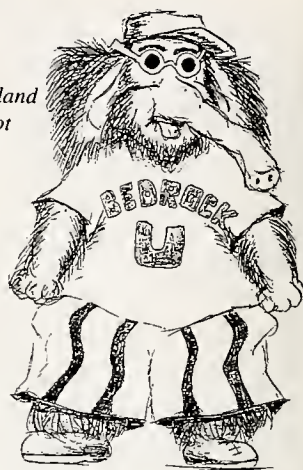

After a healthy ten-week break all us second years threw away our pathology text and took a series of pathology quizzes en route to forgetting the subject forever. We knew this was a delay tactic to allow the clinical instructors an extra week to vacation while we ground out graffiti in the stacks. By the time second year got going we were ready to roll. The familiar classroom setting (just one floor higher) and faces lulled us back into our old ways. There were fewer labs and lectures seemed more palatable. Was it due to the fact that some of this material would be useful one day or that we had become duller people over the summer? We struggled through short two and three-week courses and took bite-sized tests that were much easier to swallow than our first year entrees. In addition to being veteran academicians we were senior to the incoming first years. Suddenly we were holders of the truth, respected by one-fourth of the medical school and sneered at by the rest. We were also tentative travelers into the clinical side of medicine. We could draw blood and wear sharp-looking white jackets. We could conduct afternoon-long history and physicals (to the chagrin of our breathless patients) and we could look forward to the boards.

MS III: This is the year that started with boards. . . And ended with scut upon the wards

In terms of where we are . . . And from our peepholes in the stacks we fantasized about life on the wards, whether we were meant to be doctors and how long we could retain the mounds of minutiae. After filling in the last bubble (or after the time expired) on the second day of the boards in the waning hours of that June afternoon, we all collapsed in a heap.

The boards were a culmination, purification, a mental flossing that supposedly showed us the breadth and depth of medical meandering that could be avoided by going into clinical medicine.

After ten days we replanted ourselves in comfortable walking shoes and began the plodding, erratic march of a third year: sometimes racing along the halls glancing cautiously at the vital signs in fear of a febrile temperature, sometimes forever staring at the hieroglyphics smeared across the ICU/IMCU day sheets. In the beginning our physical diagnostic prowess was based on Dr. Philp's plethora of dictums. We knew the "normal" patient and how to repeatedly ask questions to a sober, comfortable patient. Suddenly we were faced with the psychotic patient, the intoxicated patient, the burned patient, the aniginal patient, the leukemic, the patient with a chart of past admissions thicker than our combined biochemistry text, the patient with symptoms that do not fit in any category whatsoever. Our ability to shuffle and scramble became more important than our ability to contemplate deep diagnostic thoughts. A succinct combination would have been ideal, but our contributions as ward monkeys soon overrode our feeble attempts at thought. Physical input dominated. We raced up and down flights of stairs, stood hours on end holding retractors, waited by silent phones embarrassed for losing the rounding team, and stood at elbowside with pen poised for orders to be written.

And third year contained a joyful five to ten-week hiatus that contrasted brilliantly with the wards as well as clinic work at RHC in peds and OB/GYN. All in all third year was a 40+ week adventure which could never be replaced with mere events. It was filled with extremes of emotion, clinical realization, academic challenges, professional interaction, independent motivation, classmate camaraderie and multiple shelf board exams. Many of us experienced death and life first hand and learned of the subtleties of patient-physician interaction. Disease and mysticism paradoxically walked hand in hand down the sulci of our minds.

1989: Bush/Glasnost/Tiananmen Square/Exxon Valdez/USS Iowa/Hurricane Hugo/San Francisco Quake/Paris Air Show/Bakker Trial/Sabman Rushdie/AIDS — Patchwork Quilt/Pete Rose/Zsa Zsa/Batman/Abortion/Columbian Drug War/Hungary & Czech. Borders Open/Berlin Wall Comes Down/Ceausescu Execution/Romania overthrows communist government/Poland's 1st Democratic Election/US invades Panama
MS IV: After three we come to four. . . And after four's an open door

Fourth year is. There's no describing it except for its release. A fourth year student experiences life on the ward minus much of the ward work. We enjoy the ability to pick and choose our areas of study and instructors. We start to take bold steps toward a career that will be the sustenance of a brilliant life and the root system for a functioning individual. We can live in a community of real people that go to work and fall asleep in front of the TV not over books. Most of all we make decisions. No more hiding in academia or lurking on wards immersed in "Admission No. 24 — FUO". We take tentative steps in a known direction: forward or backward but still known.

And during fourth year we all enjoy living . . . at least after the boards, the seemingly biannual (or annual) event that separates us from a month of fun, and after the residency applications, one of the great inciters of procrastination. Interviewing and traveling to programs near and far, pretending we are stellar candidates sought after for obvious reasons unbeknownst to our grades and board scores is enjoyed by all. And we interview and become sharp and independent. Then we return a little less glued to the principles in which we were basted during third year and a little more anxious about acceptance, hiring, matching.

March brings on the momentous Match that faces off our hopes with our futures. It is generally a happy event sprinkled with occasional strains of woe, strains that tug at hearts of those affected and dampen their spirits. On the whole it is a final glorious moment that surpasses the pumped up "Pomp and Circumstance" of graduation, a mere ritual surrounded by passive achievement. The Match accomplishments are earned.

Then we graduate. We finish our time at BGSM and point ourselves in different directions aiming at destinations in time and place. But while we are on the launch pad with spirits poised and hearts heaving loudly we can feel the hot breath of our mates who are waiting in rapt pleasure, anticipating the fast-approaching storm of medical involvement, independence and responsibility. With the support of our friends, family and faculty we are weaned from the womb of medical school to the harsh world of reality and given an opportunity to grow, to establish oneself and to practice.

We still had lectures 3rd and 4th year.

David, Leigh and Richard in conference.

*FINALLY we got to see patients
... or at least their charts!*

"Patient has had no previous fatal illnesses."

At times we grew tired.

We ate when we could . . .

4th year we had time for our friends.

ALTERATIVE TONIC.

INDICATIONS.—Ane-
mia from any cause,
Struma, latent Syphilis,
General Debility, Tuberculosis, Malaria, Loss of Appetite, Habitual Constipation, Chlorosis,
Chorea, Chronic Uterine,
Genito-Urinary, Pelvic,
Zymotic, Catarrhal and Dermatological Diseases

THE FORMULA IMMEDIATELY SUGGESTS ITSELF TO THE THOUGHTFUL PHYSICIAN.

DOSE.—One or two fluid drachms three or more times a day as directed by the physician.
This combination of the most potent agents at our command, so markedly facilitates the action of each, that practice confirms what theoretically is an "Ideal Alterative Tonic," without tendency to derange the stomach or constipate.

The physician may add any of the soluble Iodides. Twelve Ounce Bottle; PRICE, $1.00.

Dr. William A. Hammond's SANITARIUM

— FOR —
DISEASES

OF THE

NERVOUS SYSTEM,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Sanitarium is situated on Columbia Heights, at the corner of Fourteenth Street and Sheridan Avenue. The position is the highest in the immediate vicinity of Washington. The soil is dry and all the surroundings are free from noxious influences. The Fourteenth-street cable cars run almost to the door. The building is very large, and in its construction every sanitary requirement has been fulfilled. The number of patients is limited to twenty. Electricity in all its forms, baths, douches, massage, inhalations, nursing, etc., are provided as may be required by patients, in addition to such other medical treatment as may be deemed advisable. The building is heated throughout by steam. For further information DR. HAMMOND can be addressed at the Sanitarium, 14th St. and Sheridan Ave., Washington, D. C.

NEW WORLD

*Isn't it nice that we can dream
 Of all the places we can't see
 Fly over oceans wide
 Do all the things we never tried
 And isn't it strange how you can go
 Back to a home you've never known
 It's like you were there before
 A place you've been searching for
 The new world waits inside your dream
 And your heart knows the way
 Isn't it nice to feel so free
 And love the way love's supposed to be
 Never with hurt or pain
 And never with something else to gain
 And isn't it strange it seems so clear
 That you have nothing here to fear
 But somehow the morning light
 Fades all the things you see at night*

*The new world waits inside your dream
 And your heart leads the way
 But isn't it nice to let it go
 On to the life you'll someday know
 And let the real world fade away
 Once you're there
 You'll know that you're inside
 You can't turn back
 When you open your eyes
 The new world waits inside your dream
 And your heart knows the way
 And isn't it nice to let it go
 On to the life you'll someday know
 And let the real world fade away
 Isn't it nice to let it go
 On to the life your soul will know
 And let the real world fade away*
